HENNINGS FINDS SIGNS OF RISING INDIFFERENCE TO BILL OF RIGHTS

Laments 'Carelessness' as Committee Opens Inquiry on Constitution Day - Citizens Heard.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP) -In recent years there have been signs of a "lamentable indifference—a carelessness, as it were—about the individual rights guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States," Senator Thomas C. Hennings (Dem.), Missouri, said today in opening a Constitution day meeting of the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional

The subcommittee, of which Hennings is chairman, heard from citizen spokesmen for a cross-section of American life as it began an investigation to determine whether basic freedoms are being eroded.

doms are being eroded.

Spokesmen from all walks of life presented the subcommittee with petitions for "a redress of grievances" in the form of statements surveying the status of constitutional rights on the 168th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

Complaints ranged from methods employed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and guilt by association or kinship to compulsory unionism, expansion of federal power and suppression of news.

ADENAUER GAINS SUPPORT IN BONN

BONN, Sept. 17 (UP)-West Germany's political parties swung overwhelmingly behind Chancellor Adenauer today, in-dicating a massive vote of condence next week in his Mos ow agreements.

Support for Adenauer appeared growing although in Berlin the East German Communists already were claiming the credit in advance if the Soviets release German war prisoners—a condition demanded by Adenauer for establishing diplomatic relations with Moscow.

The Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland said in an editorial that the 9626 Germans serving war crimes sentences in Russia will have to thank East German President Wilhelm Pieck and the "peace policy" of the Soviet sone government if they are freed.

It made no mention of the verbal promise secured by Adenauer from the Soviets for release of the prisoners. The statement strengthened belief the East German Communists would return from the current Moscow talks with a written guarantee for the prisoners' release.

Adenauer goes before the Bundestag (lower house) next Thursday to deliver a government statement on his Moscow negotiations and ask for indorsement of his move to establish diplomatic relations. The vote is Friday.

A series of party huddles by all the main political groups since Adenauer's return showed that the vast majority of parliament was behind him. Some experts believed the opposition Socialists might for once abandon their blanket rejection of his foreign office and vote for the Moscow agreements.

Muller said he went to Europe earlier this summer in the assumption he would be named to the delegation of top nuclear scientists representing the United States in Geneva.

He said he received letters from the AEC July 18 and 22 declaring the U.N. had not "requested" him to attend the Aug. 8 conference, and that the U.N. had just let them know its decision belatedly.

Guards are in front of the telegraph office, the telephone office and the post office. All vehicles belonging to those offices have been requisitioned and are being driven by civilian volunteers. The rebel radio has ordered all gasoline stations to provide them with fuel without restrictions. It also said that any person spreading false rumors would be shot. Benson Resignation Demanded at Iowa Farm Meetings.

DES MOINES, I.a., Sept. 17 (UP) — Nonpartisan protest meetings were snowballing across Iowa today to demand that Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson resign.

Four meetings of Iowa farmers have been held, and three more were scheduled in the state for the next two weeks.

Both Republicans and Democrats attended a meeting at Corning Thursday, where more than 400 farmers from five counties gathered and applauded demand that Benson resign.

At Corning, former Republican Gov. Dan Turner, one of Iowa's leading pre-convention supporters of Dwight Eisenhower in 1952, called today for Benson's resignation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17
(AP)—Industrial plants in the six northeastern states hit by hurricane-flood last month suffered damage totaling $157,000,000, the Department of Commerce reported.

In making this first preliminary estimate of actual losses, the department said yesterday silt and debris are still, being dug out of hundreds of plants, but much equipment earlier reported destroyed has been found in restorable condition.

Connecticut, with $72,500,000 worth, accounted for nearly half the total losses reported. This does not include damage to homes, highways and other non-industrial facilities.

Uncharitable to Charity

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It is puzzling that the United Fund

Can it be that the United Fund is fantile Paralysis, the Heart Association, the American Cancer Society and the Muscular Distrophy Association are referred to by you as "recalcitrant charities."

Among other things, recalcitrant means "not amenable to subjection or control," and that may be the reason Mr. Danforth has been unable to persuade these charities to participate in the United Fund.

It seems unlikely the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis would have been able to carry out its program of research, patient care, professional education, and epidemic aid had it depended solely on funds allotted by a United Fund. The country might yet be waiting for a vaccine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: May I highly commend your fine paper for its current presentation of Anne Morrow Lindbergh's wonderful book, "Gift From the Sea." Here is a woman who has maturely and earnestly searched for truth and understanding. Through her fine book she conveys to everyone a great quantity of what she has found. It basically sets forth not only "a way of life for women" but for men also.

I have reason to believe this blue-jay may be the bird I raised last summer when I was 14 years old. He fell out of the nest and when I got him he was nearly starved. I suggest, Mr. Editor, that you take a look in your own backyard before you approach St. Louis county as being a corrupt city.

St. Louis county has finer streets and highways, better traffic conditions throughout, more stable economy, practically no slums, numerous large shopping centers to be envied by any large city, and in a few short words, I think it is a very fine place in which to live. #### Where the City Can Help

The Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District ears the responsibility for ending the pollution of Maline creek, but the key to the cure lies in of Maline creek, but the key to the cure lies in St. Louis—specifically in City Hall.

Money is at the root of this seeming contradiction. The people of the newly-formed Maline Creek Subdistrict of the Metropolitan District will be unable to borrow a single penny to construct their urgently-needed trunk sewer until the Metropolitan agency itself has an assured source of revenue. Bankers will not lend funds to an agency that threatens to go bankrupt.

The other possible method of financing the

The other possible method of financing the sewer, aside from borrowing, involves issuance of special tax bills. Unfortunately, however, this method does not appear practical. Apart from increasing costs by at least 25 per cent, other considerations involved in this method make it unlikely that any contractor would undertake the job. This means that funds for the Maline sewer will have to come from a bond issue, and this in turn means the District will have to find source of operating revenue.

Two sources of revenue are available to the District. If it could tap either one it would be in business. But in each instance the co-operation of St. Louis is essential, and so far there is no indication that that co-operation will be forth-

The first method is the traditional one of the meral property tax, which we favor. On the basis of State Tax Commission figures. St. Louis county assessments have now been raised to a level where a District-wide rate would not un-duly discriminate against city property owners. But the City Administration is known to oppose this method; more than that, it evidently has threatened the District with a long court fight if such action is attempted.

That leaves the method of assessing sewer service charges, billing and collection of which would be handled in conjunction with water bills. And that would require co-operation of St. Louis County Water Co., a private firm, as well as the three county municipalities that do their own billing. They are believed to be sympathetic to the aims of the District and not likely to cause problems. The difficulty again lies in St. Louis. Would the Board of Aldermen sanction such an arrangement, involving as it does the assessing of a new charge?

When and if the District levies a service charge it would have to relieve the city of the responsibility of maintaining city sewers. And the city, having no need of tax money for sewer maintenance, then could lower its tax rate. On such a deal, the individual city taxpayer should break even.

Mayor Tucker is due back from his trip abroad about Oct. 4. The Board of Aldermen is scheduled to reconvene Oct. 7. Before then the District trustees ought to have an equitable sched-ule of sewer service charges ready for study by Mr. Tucker and the Aldermen

If the sewer charges are fair, neither Mr. Tucker nor the aldermen can have any valid objection to that method of financing. But if the aldermen refuse to act, even in the face of a fair schedule of use charges, the District trustees will have no other recourse but to fall back on the property tax and challenge the city to upset it.

While it is a great pity that the sewer trustees have not moved with more vigor, what is past is past. The job now is to lick the problem—with the co-operation of City Hall if possible, or without it if need be. Then perhaps the bankers will provide the cash for the Maline Creek sewer.

The Navy Begins Taking Draftees

The Navy is so short of men that for the first time since World War II it is going to use the draft instead of relying entirely on volunteers. It will begin using a monthly quota of 10,000 men in November. The Army, which has been drafting 10,000 men monthly, began using the draft early in the Korean War.

The Navy is particularly hard hit now because the four-year enlistments of the Korean War days are expiring. So is the Air Force but it is going to continue to attempt to rely on volunteers. The Marines have depended on volunteers since June 1952.

All the services are particularly distressed over the high percentages of non-commissioned officers who are leaving instead of re-enlisting. Many of these men, who form the backbone of their services, have acquired skills that vield much better returns in civilian life than in service. And no small numbers of the draftees are earning as much in civilian life as they will be paid in the services. Employment is good right now and the pleasures of civilian shine brightly in contrast to the drabness and the rigidity of military life. As for patriotism, it takes something close to the Korean War days

It may well be that the Army and the Navy are not getting sufficient volunteers because they do not have the glamor that goes with the Air Force and the Marines. And as the first line of defense is not weapons but the men required to wield the weapons, the Army and Navy will probably just have to continue relying on the draft to provide the steady flow of manpower

Now that the farm problem is coming under intensive study by both political parties and other groups as well, we hope that somebo will undertake to answer one question that both ers consumers. Why is it that hog prices can drop so far and so fast, while pork prices drop little if any? And who gets the bigger spread between prices on the hoof and prices at

In the four years since September 1951, the price of hogs at National Stockyards has dropped from around $21.10 to around $16.75. That is a decline of $4.35 a hundred pounds, or 20

But the price of pork at St. Louis supermarkets has not declined anything like 20 per cent during the same period. At one supermarket chain, for example, pork loin roasts sold at 41 cents a pound four years ago, and are advertised at 39 cents this week. That is a decline of only generally, it seems clear that somebody along the meat processing and distributing chain has been improving his position since 1951 at the expense of the farmer, the consumer, or both.

Had hog prices dropped by 5 per cent as pork prices did, hogs would be selling now for $1.05 less than they sold for in 1951. Instead, the price decline amounts to $4.35. Who got the other $3.30? Why is it that prices to the farmer went down 20 per cent but prices to the consumer went down less than 5 per cent?

Those questions surely need attention in any

Those questions surely need attention in any tudy of the loss of farm income and of proposals to halt the decline.

From Revolt to Revolt

The new revolt against President Juan Peron threatens Argentina with a general civil war. It is more than a limited attempt at a coup by naval units, such as occurred last June. This time dissident Army groups have joined naval forces, and fighting has spread to a number of major inland cities.

So far Dictator Peron has survived a halfdozen revolts in 10 years in power, and used most of them to repress the opposition and shore up that power. But his administration's record for bloodshed is still unfinished. The new revolt was possible despite severest police state pressures which the Peron Government has only recently instituted.

An uprising which occurs just when a dictatorship has clamped down on its people shows the depth of antagonism to Peron. That hostility extends through parts of the Army, much of the Navy and Air Force, most of the official Catholic Church and throughout the provinces. It is no

Undoubtedly the spark which ignited the revolts of 1955 was the dictatorship's war on the church. In his bitter effort to separate church from state, Peron ruthlessly expelled churchfrom their country, set secret police after individual priests and permitted Peronist mobs to destroy church property.

The purpose of the anti-church campaign was to destroy the last cohesive source of potential opposition. And though Peron talked of civil peace after the June revolt, in recent weeks he returned to the policy of harshness

Numerous economic issues also beset the dictatorship. Argentine trade is again receding, the value of the peso has declined and Peron has been unable to manage inflation. Even his departure from past nationalism, in an effort to attract overseas capital, has run into trouble.

One late subject of much criticism is a con-tract to let Standard Oil of California exploit Argentine oil resources, with a 50-50 split of profits between government and company. This contract has aroused bitter protests from the very nationalists who were first to support

But the sources of the present revolt must also include a host of grievances accumulated through the years of dictatorship. Certainly the wreckage of the free press and suppression of civil liberties played their part in arousing those Argentinians who remember the advancing democratic state which they once had.

Juan Peron still has strong military forces and his labor organizations to protect him. With these he may be able to secure his position as he has in the past. But two revolts four months apart prove that the price of his dictatorial security will be more and more Argentine blood.

Canada Joins the River Parkway

If it seemed strange for the members of the Mississippi River Scenic Parkway Commission to hold their annual meeting at Kenora, Ontario, the reason has now been made perfectly clear. Canada has joined in the project. More than a thousand miles to the north, the representatives of 10 Mississippi Valley states stood with Canadian friends and participated in the unveiling of a cairn that officially linked the Trans-Canada Highway with the proposed scenic route down Mississippi.

The commission will miss the late A. P. Greensfelder of St. Louis, who died last April after devoting much of his time for years to plans for developing a highway that will cross and recross the Mississippi many times to afford tourists its most beautiful views. Fortunately the group has a devoted new "pilot" in Dr. H. W. Trovillion of Godfrey, Ill.

In years to come the continent will have a priceless asset in the scenic highway these men are now planning and building. They deserve the gratitude of us all.

Flaw in the Atomic Energy Act

The obligation of the Atomic Energy Commission to give public and co-operative electric power systems first call on federally-generated power needs to be reinforced. shown by the way in which AEC has gone about the marketing of electric power from a reactor at West Milton, N.Y.

As a result of the prolonged debate over AEC legislation in Congress last year, the preference clause which has long safeguarded the public's interest in publicly-generated hydroelectric power was applied to atomic-electric power also,

The commission showed little awareness of its responsibilities in this regard, however, when, in preparing to sell the power from West Milton, it called for competitive bids. Municipal and rural co-operative systems which under the law are supposed to have first access to this power at the lowest practicable price were notified by AEC that they could get the power only if they bid higher than private-utility bidders.

When the municipal and co-operative systems succeeded in getting their rights heard by AEC, it then turned out that there was no way of transmitting the power except over the lines of the one private utility that was bidding for it, the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp.

Niagara Mohawk refuses to transmit the power than for itself, and in this position it is perfectly within its rights, though it seems likely a more co-operative attitude would pay better dividends in the long run. The systems with first call on this power under the law therefore lack the means of putting their rights into practice.

The American Public Power Association regards the case as one which "will set a precedent of far-reaching importance." It proposes amendment of the AEC act to require the com mission to assume responsibility for delivery of its atomic power to preference customers.

Life Can Be Added to Years

The Mirror Public Opinion

Half of evening college enrollment is young people, adult educator notes, but there is increasing need for instruction for older groups; maturity does not damage capacity to learn; as life span increases, education can help in making added years worth living.

Young Ideas Only Ideas?

First of all, he can do much to remove the general misunderstanding as to what happens when one matures. The general feeling has been that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks." We are still suffering from the belief of the generation of William James, distinguished Harvard psychologist, who said.

said:
"Outside of their own business, the ideas gained by men before they are 25 are practically the only ideas they shall have in their lives. They cannot get anything new. Disinterested curiosity is past, the mental grooves and channels set, the power of assimilation gone. Whatever exceptions there might be cited to these are of the sort that prove the rule."

We know now that no one ever need despair of learning anything he wants

Second, the educator can remove the Second, the educator can remove the misunderstanding about the efficiency of the older worker. Men of 40 or 45, and women of 35 have a difficult time securing jobs because it is generally felt they are not as capable as younger workers, yet study after study shows that the ability of an older worker, even in his 70x is greater in many respects.

in his 70s, is greater in many respects than that of the younger worker.

Professor Peterson of the University

Professor Peterson of the University of Illinois in two studies reported employer reaction to the older worker. Sixty-three per cent stated that the industrial worker 60 and over had less absenteeism; 93 per cent reported that he gets along as well or better with otherworkers, that he is as dependable or more dependable; 80 per cent reported as great or greater work volume; and 92 per cent reported the quality of his work is as good as or better than the younger worker's.

younger worker's.

Many evening colleges and extension services are prepared to be of considerable service. The University of Michigan and the University of Chicago have perhaps done most. Both of them, but especially Michigan, have set a pattern which has been rapidly taken up by others. It has developed a state-wide program, has a division of Gerontology, and now offers a degree in the field. The rapid expansion of its activities in the last six years has demonstrated that the need is great and is becoming greater and greater.

Maturity and Dependability

W. H. Reals, Professor of Adult Education, in The Washington University Adult Education Bulletin living? What advantage will it be to a person of 75 without a responsible and socially useful task to perform, who is discarded because employers despair of his ability, who has serious mental and physical incapacities?

If years are added to life, life should be added to years. Outside the medical profession, no one can do more than the adult educator.

Approximately one half of the evening college enrollment is under 30 years of age; over one third, under 25. It is the younger adult who is being served; so we have geared our program to him and have emphasized vocational and professional skills to enable him to advance in his job, to prepare for a new one, or to secure a general education.

Though the evening college enrolls those of all ages—some in their 80s—only 10 per cent of its clientele is 45 or over, which is altogether out of proportion to the general population. It is predicted that by 1975, those 45 and over will number 63,000,000, nearly one half of all persons over 20 years of age.

The adult educator should be con The adult educator should be con-cerned, first, because he should be con-cerned with all adults; and second, because of the tremendous porportion of those reaching later maturity and the multiplication of their problems about which the adult educator can do much.

In Aristotle's day, the fourth century B.C., one could expect to live only to 23; in 1790, 21 centuries later, life expectancy was only 24; in 1850, 40; in 1900, 47; and last year, 69.

The increase in life expectancy has been as great in the last 50 years as in the 23 centuries before. The medical profession, while performing what it thinks a boon, is creating problems for the one who lives on, and these problems are concerns of social workers, employers, labor organizations, churches, and almost all other social institutions.

The Beauty of Ceramics THE ART OF THE POTTER. A BOOK FOR THE CONNOISSEUR, by William Bowyer Honey. (Beechhurst Press, III pgs., 140 pl., $8.50.)

This is the first American edition of a book published in England in 1946. No one is better equipped to plan a book of this sort than the author, W. B. Honey, who is Keeper of the Depart ment of Ceramics at the Victoria and Albert Museum, in London, and an em nent authority in his field.

It is in large part a picture book of masterpieces of ceramic art chosen to display the widest possible range of beauty in pottery, its smoothness, roughness, roundness of form and effect of decoration and glaze under such headings as Materials and Processes. headings as Materials and Processes, Form, Decoration, Figure Modeling and Color.

Without much regard for classifica-Without much regard for classification or historical sequence, the arrangement is quite arbitrary. The plates in each group are so disposed that they produce effective harmonies and contrasts on the pages where they appear.
A Chinese jar of bold pattern is on the
design; Greek and Persian vases are contrasted, or an English Staffordshire dish harmonizes with a Slovakian one.

Captions for the plates have been kept as short as possible, merely giving place of origin and date, so that the objects themselves will make their impression without benefit of words. However, helpful descriptions and explanatory comments will be found in the list of plates accompanying each group.

The author's aim in the selection of the examples is to widen and deepen appreciation of all important types of ceramic art. This is an anthology of pots chosen for their beauty ranging from pre-dynastic Egyptian to contemporary pieces produced by modern factory methods.

The book is not only a treasury of beautifully reproduced illustrations, but it contains as well valuable and authoritative information on all aspects of the potter's art.

Hub Was a Cutting Horse THE BIG RANCH COUNTRY, by J. W. Williams. (Terry Bros., Printers, 307 pgs., $5.)

(Terry Sco., Frinters, 307 pgs., 35.)

Cowboy Sam Graves's love and understanding of horses began in his boyhood and lasted all of his long, long life. Sam was just a lad when he saw Hub, a sleek young colt which was being raised on a neighbor's ranch. He took such a fancy to the horse that the neighbor offered to sell it to Sam and set the price at 2000 post oak rails, Sam went back to work and split the rails and soon became Hub's owner.

Sam went back to work and split the rails and soon became Hub's owner. It was the beginning of one of the finest partnerships between a man and a horse in the cow country. Hub became a fine cutting horse and could turn on a dime in maneuvering a cow from a herd. When Hub was twenty-two years old and long retired, Sam entered him in a cutting horse contest just to see what he could do—and the old horse wen the event! The horse a man rides—or doesn't ride—can come mighty close to his heart.

The story of Hub is one of the many stories told by Mr. Williams in "Big Ranch Country," to form a colorful mosaic of both early day and modern ranch life, cattlemen, horses and breeds of cows. Combining atmosphere with a lot of facts, Mr. Williams tells the story of the West Texas cattle ranches, large and small, from their very beginnings down to the present day. He writes of the lore, history and operations of these ranches in a most informative manner and his concluding chapter on range economics summarizes his own thoughts on the future of the nation's beefsteak supply.

A fine group of old-time phetographs.

A fine group of old-time photographs, some outstanding black and white sketches, and a series of maps showing the locations of the big ranches, enhance the book, one of the most authentic I have seen on the subject.

If you don't think it's in the dictionary, take a look. And it's sometimes spelled "ornary" and undoubtedly popped into the spoken language as a colloquial contraction of "ordinary." Dictionaries define it briefly as connoting "mean, contemptible" and one work on language quotes its use in the United States before 1800.

Since them it has accomplished.

Since then it has accumulated a wealth of meanings, a symphony of over-tones—and for that matter, a variety of

JEWISH NEW YEAR CELEBRATED TODAY

Hashana Services Rosh Held in All Congregations in St. Louis

Today is the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashana, and spe-cial services are being held in all Jewish congregations.

Following are extracts from sermons by rabbis of the St. Louis area

Rabbi Burton E. Levinson, Temple Shaare Emeth: "Religion is not only believing, it is also doing, accomplishing, stumbling, rising up, and stumbling again. Religion is not daring to believe something regardless of evidence. It is daring to do something regardless of the consequences."

Rabbi Samuel Thurman, United Hebrew Temple: "As a people, history may record us as the most self-reliant. We have depended less upon the help, the approval, the recognition from other peoples and other nations. We certainly cannot trace our survival, our free-Rabbi Burton E. Levinson not trace our survival, our free-dom, as a gift at the hands of our neighbors. The Jew is the eternal symbol of the truth that freedom and survival are the gifts of God to man and not of man."

Rabbi Julian H. Miller, B'nai El Temple: "The significant word in the greeting, 'A Happy New Year,' is the word 'New.' It tells us we are entering, not only another year, a milestone marking the progress of time, but much more mean-ingful is the thought—it is so onew that no one can tell us what it contains. It is a curtain less penetrable than the fron curtain of Russia. Let us enter it fearlessly, knowing we shall not go alone, but that God will go with us."

it fearlessly, knowing we shall not go alone, but that God will go, with us."

Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman, Temple Israel: "Judaism offers to all who accept it a mature faith which gives to every individual spiritual independence by enabling him directly to communicate with God without any intermediary; which through the Fifth Commandment has fostered good family relationships; which through its messianic hope of universal protherhood, universal brotherhood, universal justice, and universal peace, and universal love on this earth, has cultivated good relationships with all people ..." Cardinals lose Stan Musial, they seem to fall flat on their faces.

They did just that here at County Stadium last night, only the departure of The Man in the first and in the first inning did little to hasten their 9-4 setback at the hands of the second-place Braves. Musial pulled a muscle in his right leg beating out a hit down the third-base line.

Actually, from the initial look of things, Stan's sidelining appeared to be a blessing in disguise, since his substitute in right field, Joe Frazier, swung the heaviest cudgel, for the Cardinals and earned whatever tip of the hat Manager Harry Walker made after the sad result was in. sult was in.

sult was in.

Frazier lifted St. Louis hopes with a three-run homer in the third, scoring Brooks Lawrence and Ken Boyer, who had singled before him. Hitting a meager .120 when inserted into the lineup, he also singled in the sixth and ninth to give him a perfect night. He played a key role in all four St. Louis runs, scoring the fourth tally on a sacrifice fly to right by Catcher Nels Burbrink.

Musial shrugged off the leg injury and said he would be in there this afternoon. He was pulled as a precautionary meas-

OMAHA, Sept. 17 (AP)—Minneapolis and its fearsome home run power threatened a sweep of the American Association playoff finals with Omaha today. The Millers carried a 2-0 advantage into Omaha for the third game of the best of seven set tonight. Omaha's only hope was that a change of atmosphere might quiet the Miller powerhouse, which propelled six homers last night in an 8-6 victory in Minneapolis.

Omaha plans to start specialist Stu Miller against Minneapolis's Whitey Konikowski.

New York Giant castoff Monte Irvin put Minneapolis over the top last night with a threerun blast in the seventh inning to erase a 6-4 Omaha lead. Rance Pless, Bob Lennon, George Wilson and Lou Ortiz preceded him with homers earlier in the game and Carl Sawatski provided insurance with another in the eighth.

Omaha itself clouted four homers in little Nicollet park, by Don Blasingame, Frank Carswell, Dick Schofield and Jerry Thomas.

Harry Nicholas won the game in relief and Joe Presko took the defeat.

Knox Stars as U.C.L.A. Drubs Texas Aggies

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)— Ronnie Knox. a 19-year-old sharpshooter, has played exactly one game of college football, but he's already being plugged
as one of the Pacific Coast's great backs.

In fact, even before he tossed three touchdown passes in U.C.L.A.'s opening 21-0 victory over Texas A. and M. last night in Los Angeles, Knox was a "known" unknown quantity, since he had starred at three different high schools.

A crowd of 65,334 watched the veteran-packed forces of Coach Red Sanders run all over the youthful Aggies.

Coach Red Sanders run all over the youthful Aggles.
But it was Knox who drew the plaudits. In the second period, he pitched touchdown passes to Johnny Hermann (25 yards), and in the third quarter, he pitched to Jim Decker (23 yards).
A scattering of other games were played last night. Drake defeated North Dakota State 28-6 and Davidson turned back Catawba 26-0 in the most important.

Catawba 26-0 in the most important.

The top game on today's schedule sends Miami against Georgia Tech at Atlants in the opener of a day-night double-header. It will be the first college football game ever televised nationally in color.

The game will be telecast by KSD-TV starting at 2:15 o'clock.

The night half of the twin-bill will send Mississippi against Georgia.

Wright-Patterson Wins. Wight-Fatterson wins.
With Jim VerHelst pitching a

The coaching staff, obviously, is more conservative in the face of overwhelming odds—Maryland is rated 21 or more points superior—but Don Faurot, who sent his first Missouri team onto the emerald turf of Memorial Stadium 20 years ago, has a bit of the rahrah left in him, too.

"We'll have to do a terrific job on defense and throw better than we have in practice, meaning there's got to be 'if' this and 'if' that," Faurot said, 'but, we could make it a great ball game, just as it's true Maryland is capable of running off with it." off with it.

Trouble at 'Hold On' Curve

Cable car at San Francisco sitting at rakish angle on being restored to upright position after it failed to make the turn at Jackson and Powell streets yesterday. Twenty passengers were injured as brakes failed and the car toppled after hitting famed "hold on" curve at high speed. Curve gets its name from traditional warning given by conductors to "laid on for the curve."

FROM THE PAST

Technician Anthony Andreocci adjusting burner on gas street lamp at Glen Ridge, N. J. Despite the quaint, out-of-the-past appearance, the lamp is an up-to-date model with pilot light and time clock. Glen Ridge is one of eight communities near New York City which have the gas lamp systems. -United Press Photo.

FOUR SETS OF SISTERS AT HOSPITAL

Four sets of sisters enrolled in nursing or X-ray schools at Deaconess Hospital. Girls (from left, top to bottom) are: Pauline and Juanita Mitchell, nursing students from Arcadia, Mo.; Helen and Carol Knipp, Mascoutah, Ill., Helen a nursing student, Carol an X-ray student; Leona and Marilyn Hinz, Plymouth, Nebr., Leona a student nurse and Marilyn in the X-ray class; Betty and Patsy Baker, nursing students from St. Clair, Mo.

-By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

TRUCK IN TROUBLE

Big truck rests on tail after its load of pre-mixed concrete proved to be too heavy when it started up steep hill at Aberdeen, Wash., yesterday. Driver was not injured but his load spilled out and ran down the hill.

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS

Unseated rider attempts to leave scene rapidly with horse aiming kick in his direction in action at the annual Pendleton (Ore.) Roundup. Cowboys who were enjeying ground-level view of the operation head for high spots as the bucking animal charges along fence.

HOAGY CARMICHAEL'S WIFE President Invites Sports Figures

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Bept. 17 (UP)—Singer-composer Hoasy Carmichael is accused of extreme mental cruelty in a divorce suit filed yesterday by his wife of 18 years.

Mrs. Ruth M. Carmichael did not specify the alleged acts of cruelty. She said a settlement had been reached providing for the joint care and custody of two sons, Hoasy Jr., 16 years old, and Randolph, 15, as well as for support.

The Carmichaels were married March 14, 1936, in New York and separated last November. Carmichael, also a television and radio star, is the composer of the song hits "Stardust" and "Old Buttermilk Sky."

youth.

The purpose of the conference is to get more youngsters out of the spectator grandstands and into active participation in athletics.

The President has expressed concern that lack of such participation is responsible in part for increasing juvenile delinquency, and for failure of so many young people to measure up to selective service requirements.

As announced previously, Vice President Nixon will preside at the two-day conference at Mr. Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here. The President himself will receive the conferees' recommendations and speak at a dinner concluding the sessions.

Sports Figures.

Sporis Figures.

Those invited to the conference from the sports world include:

Bobby Jones, the former grand slam champion of golf; Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champ; Rogers Hornsby, one-time baseball great and now director of youth activities for the Chicago Park District; Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick; Clarence (Biggie) Munn, athletic director at Michigan State University; Kenneth L. Wilson, president of the United States Olympic Committee, and Army Major Sammy Lee, Olympic diving champion who recently was twice rejected by Southern California real estate men in his attempts to purchase a home.

They turned Lee down because of his Korean lineage. Subsequently he was offered a house for sale in another California community where he plans to settle when he leaves the Army. He is a physician on the staff at Fort Carson, Colo. Among education leaders invited to the conference are Dr. Arthur S. Adams, president of the American Council on Education, and Dr. Lawrence D. Haskew of Oneonta, N.Y., president of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

DULLES RESUMES WORK BEFORE HIS VACATION IS OVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew back last Foster Dulles flew back last night from a two-week vacation and got back to work even be-fore his plane touched ground. Dulles told reporters at Washington's National airport that he had been studying "two thick volumes" of reports on what has been going on during his absence.

what has been going on during his absence.

He said these papers were put aboard the two-engine plane which brought him here when he boarded it at Watertown, N.Y. Dulles spent two weeks at his Duck island retreat in Lake Ontario.

"I had a wonderful time," he grinned, "I can't say I'm glad to be back."

Dulles declined comment on the recent West German-Soviet agreement to exchange diplomatic representatives. Likewise, he had nothing to say on Red China's proposal that he meet with Red Chinese Premier national News Service; Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, and Jack Foster, editor of the Denver Rocky Mountain News.

On the list from the field of government are, among others, FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover; Secretary of Welfare Marion Folsom; United States Surgeon General Leonard Scheele; Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, and Samuel Brownell, United States education commissioner.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said in announcing the list of those invited that "it represents a very broad coverage of organizations and specialized groups with an interest in the problems of physical fitness of the nation."

He added that many persons the President would like to have attend the conference "could not be invited due to limitations of meeting facilities," and housing accommodations.

Martha Carr's REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION=

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their problems to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha

AM a girl 16 years old and will be a senior this year. My trouble is that I'm silly. My friends call me a happy-go-lucky character but my boy friend is always getting mad because I act this way. I can get serious mands. Is there anything wrong with my being silly? HAPPY-GO-LUCKY.

ing down the giggles a little, especially since your boy friend doesn't like them?

I AM 14 YEARS OLD. This summer I was going with a boy my age and liked him a lot. He is going away to a military scademy and has asked me to take his pin from the academy, with the condition that I go out with other boys while he is gone. He says if I don't, he will think I don't want anything to remind me of him. What should MIXED-UP.

If the pin has no more significance than a pleasant token of friendship, it would seem all right to accept it. However, you'd better ask your parents if they approve.

I AM A BOY OF 14. I got mad at my best friend several months ago and I haven't talked to him since. What can I do or say to show him I still would like to be his friend?

Simply tell him, Mike. If you were partly to blame for the quarrel, apologize. If you fell you have nothing to apologize for, at least tell him you're sorry about what happened and you'd like to be his friend again. It must have been pretty serious, however, to keep you apart all this time. Is it something you might quarrel about again? If so, maybe it would be just as well not to go around with him so much, but there's no reason not to get back on speaking terms.

Why not entertain the crowd with a picnic or seavenger hunt? Martha Carr's free leaflets will suggest plans and games. Be sure to inclose a

On Leaving Home

By Dr. Paul Popence

W HEN boys and girls grow up they should normally leave home. It will be hard for them to attain com-plete independence and maturity unless they can get away from papa and mama and learn to stand on their own feet, make their own deci> sions, and live their own lives. Unfortunately, papa mama don't always take this objective view of the matter. Mrs. Y. in particular upbraids me vio> lently for a previous column in which I urged a girl to leave home in order to improve her pros-mother and you never had DR. PAUL POPENOE a daughter and you don't know what you're talking about," she informs me. "A girl's place is in her own home until some man takes her out of it, and she needs a mother's continual guidance for that

THAT DEPENDS on the mother, Mrs. Y. The girl I was talking about would never have married if she had followed her mother's guidance, because her mother was unconsciously doing everything possible to prevent it. Let's consider some of the cases in which it is particularly important for a girl to get away from her own home to enable her to marry.

1. If parents continue to treat their daughter like a child even though she is old enough to vote, she'll do well to get out and go far.

2. If parents maintain such a rigid routine in the household that it is difficult for her to invite men or entertain them there informally and comfortably, she'll do well to get out into a place of her own.

3. If parents find fault with every man who shows up, explaining to her that he is not really good enough for her and that they have always planned a "brilliant" marriage for her, she'll make no mistake if she gets out as quickly as possible.

4. Of course, it is even more intolerable if parents try to persuade her that she should not marry at all or at least not until they are dead. "We have made every sacrifice for you and the least you can do is to take care of us as long as we live." They don't often put it quite so badly but that's what they mean. By and large, no girl has a right to sacrifice her own life to the selfish whims of parents who would more readily exploit her than take care of themselves.

FORTUNATELY, MOST PARENTS don't fall in any one of those four classes. Their purpose in life is to help their young people grow up, go out and establish homes of their own, and they would be heart-broken if the young people didn't do so. But any girl is justified in using her

GAIN a shower question is asked: "A very dear friend A of mine is going to be married shortly and I would like to give a shower for her. However, she has told me on occasions, even before she became engaged, that she is dead set against showers. Knowing how she feels, would it be improper for me to proceed with my plans and give her a shower? She herself has gone to many showers and I think it a shame not to give a party at which she will be on the receiving end for a change. Your opinion on this matter will be appreciated."

When you know that she really doesn't like showers, I think it would be a mistake to give her one.

DEAR MRS. POST: A business acquaintance of mine has just been made vice president of a large company. I would like very much to write him a note of congratulation.

Will you please tell me how to word such a note?

Answer: Write: "Dear Mrs. Jones, May I send you sincere congratulations upon your becoming vice president of the X Co.-and wish you every success. Sincerely yours, John Brown."

For the School Lunchbox

By Edith M. Barber

CHILDREN USUALLY HAVE A BIG APPETITE BY THE TIME THE LUNCH HOUR COMES. THAT'S WHY IT'S BEST TO PACK A SCHOOL LUNCH THAT WILL BE BOTH APPETIZING AND NUTRITIOUS.

THE school bells have rung in another school term and perhaps some children will find it a little hard to adjust to the routine. Often they will be eating their lunch away from harms.

Perhaps there is a lunchroom Perhaps there is a lunchroom where good combinations of food are offered. If such facilities, are not available it is much better to pack a lunchbox with the type of food that will not only appeal to them, but supply what they need for that noon day meal.

During the early fall they will not miss a hot lunch which the smaller children have probably been used to. If they can purchase milk at school, sandwiches, fruit, and a few carrot and celery sticks will provide what they need.

Children seldom have to be urged to eat relishes. They like them better than the combination of greens and vegetables we call salads, perhaps because of their crispness. Children often prefer a certain amount of crispness with a sandwich filling. Chopped carrots, green pepper and celery combined with chopped meat or with tuna make a good filling. Of course, the favorite filling is almost invariably peanut butter, to which shredded vegetables may be added.

It is also a good idea to have cookies on hand to serve as dessert, even when an apple, a pear, or an orange is a part of the lunch. Most children have a very good appetite for the noon day meal.

Life on the River

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BANGKOK.

We were called at 6 a.m. and went out to the river to see the floating market from the river. Canals have been dug to carry the water back to the land, which is very fertile and grows crops in abundance.

abundance.

Rice is the basic food here, as in many other countries in this area, but unlike Japan, for instance, which must import much of its rice, the people here have a surplus and export to many countries. countries.
We saw the people this morn-

We saw the people this morning who live on the land and in the boats. In some cases without boats these people would be bereft of all means of transportation. The small children go to school by boat, all the produce goes to market by boat, all the necessities of life come to their door by boat. The ice cream vendor rings a bell, the butcher blows a horn, someone sounds a bugle, and the housewife knows just what she will find by her float.

EVERYONE bathes in the canal. All the wash is done in its muddy waters and, strangely enough, comes out looking clean and white. And, of course, the canal is the only outlet for sewage disposal. GEOGRAPHY is the subject of today's quiz. Six correct answers is excellent.

**LATE in the morning we went to see the royal barges, which are only used on state occasions—one barge for the coronation, one for the yearly state visit to the temple and the smaller ones for members of the royal household. The barges are beautifully decorated but on state occasions they are also gaily decked with flowers and other decorations and rowed by men in gorgeous costume. Our guide evidently loved all the pageantry, as people do in every part of the world.

It was late on our return and I decided to do a little shopping, since I could not get to our meeting place and still have some time in a meeting and be back for the lunch given by the

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

VEN though "hope springs eternal in the human breast," and bridge players are relatively human — though non-bridge players will not always acknowledge this fact—it is certainly better to build up a favorable situation than merely to hope it exists.

Take the case below for example. It is true that South had a very fair chance for his contract, simply by leading out all his high cards, but he could have turned that chance into a certainty.

have an easy time bringing home the slam. When he tested the trumps, however, the picture was not quite so rosy, because all of his own and dummy's trumps would have to be drawn along with East's, hence he couldn't ruff a club if that proved necessary.

he couldn't ruff a club if that proved necessary.

However, there was an excellent chance that either hearts or clubs would break for the needed trick, so South drew trumps. West, however, discarded three spades on the trumps, and when South now cashed his remaining club honors, then shifted over to hearts, trying to break that suit 3-3, he was in for a keen disappointment.

Any expert South would fulfill this contract. After drawing trumps, the expert would lead his low spade, conceding a trick then and there. Observe the then and there. Observe the effect. South would control any return and cash the spade ace. This trick would squeeze West out of his stopper in either hearts or clubs, and whichever of these two suits he shortened, declarer would run.

Planning Ahead For Retirement By J. Earl Smith, M.D.

St. Louis Health Commissioner

OCIAL security, pensions

St. Louis Health Commissioner

OCIAL security, pensions and other retirement plans have led the American public to look upon age 65 as the retirement age and, consequently, as the threshold of old age. Yet to the physically-fit, mentally-alert men and women who are approaching this age of retirement the prospect of enforced idleness is more often than not far from alluring.

Modern medical science and improved environmental sanitation have produced a miracle during the first half of the Twentieth century. They have added 20 years to human life—not 20 years of old age tacked on to the end of life but active, useful years. The result has been that now most people approaching 65 don't feel, act, think or look "old."

IT IS TRUE that at 60 or 65

IT IS TRUE that at 60 or 65 one can't expect to live as if he was 30. With advancing years was 30. With advancing years it is wiser, and often necessary to slow down and take things a little easier, but enforced inactivity for those who are not ready for it can be the most drastic and dreadful thing that has ever happened to them. The intelligent person plans ahead. He asks himself—"what shall I retire to?" The answer may be to continue his usual occupation on a more leisurely occupation on a more leisurely basis—particularly feasible for professional and self-employed persons.

For others it may mean a new occupation requiring less physical exertion than the old one; or even a part-time job.

Answer to Question 1.

Answer to Question 2.
Yes. First, because Sunday breaks into all the routine habits of the week; and second, most people, instead of resting, work harder on Sunday than any other day (although in a different way). They go to bed tired, also in a different way—and usually much later. This breaks their sleep cycle, and next morning they wake up grouchy.

They don't realize that it takes all the resources of psychology, medicine, and sympathy of angels to help such unhappy souls. Same when they tell parents what to "tell" their problem children. TRUE, on the average. In a survey made of 1000 couples, three out of four said "yes" they were satisfied, although on they were satisfied, although on the average they had only one child. The "Eugenical News" suggests that if you asked them if they were satisfied with the number of dogs and cats they had, they would also say "yes." Other surveys showed if you had asked them at the time they were married how many children they hoped to have, they would have said "from two to four."

Tasty Tricks

For the first cool fall evening, serve dumpliers and ning, serve dumplings and stew. Drop dumplings into the hot mixture, cover and sicam ten to fifteer minutes. Remember to dip spoon into liquid and then into dump-ling mixture so dough will slip off spoon easily.

Apples for Teachers. Apples for reschers.

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — A school committee grappling with the problem of hiring sufficient teachers passed out red apples to 21 newcomers. They didn't overlook the superintendent of schools. He got a green one. Conscientious.

Flashes of Life

SPRINGFIELD, III. (UP)-C. Petty took a day off from work, rose at 4 a.m. and drove from Chicago to Springfield to appear in court for a minor traffic violation. Petty also apologized for being 20 minutes

Jate.

Justice of the Peace Joseph Maddex was so stunned that he waived a $20 fine and his own $4 fee.

"Anybody that conscientious doesn't deserve punishment," Maddox said.

Snake in the Road. BLACKSHEAR, Ga., (AP)—
Eugene Affen of Bristol, Ga., slowed his automobile to kill a rattlesnake on the highway and a pulpwood truck smashed into the rear end.

Roland Thomas, 70 years old, of Bristol, a passenger, was injured and damage to the car was estimated at $450.

Another motorist driving in the opposite direction spotted the snake, ran over it and killed it.

$90 STOLEN FROM REGISTER

A total of $90 was taken from a cash register at Erker Bros. Optical Co., 908 Olive street, yesterday, apparently by a man who lingered near the cash register and later disappeared, police were told.

John J. Erker, office manager, said employes noticed the man waiting in the store for about half an hour. A check of the register after he left showed the money missing, Erker told police.

AS PRICES MOVE UP Wall Street Concludes Credit Restrictions to Be Applied Cautiously.

BIG STOCK TURNOVER

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (UP)—
Wall street concluded that credit restrictions will be applied with extreme caution and as a result traders bid up prices all around on the stock market.
Net results for the week were as follows:
Sales totaled 13,102,207 shares, the most since June 24.
The daily average was 2,620,441 shares. A week ago the daily average was 2,425,852 shares.
The industrial average (Dow-Jones) closed the week at 483.67,, up 9.08 points on the week and a new all-time record high.

The railroad average closed By ELMER C. WALZER

The railroad average closed at 164.29, up 2.02 points and a new high since Oct. 26, 1929.
Utilities lost 56 cents to finish the week at 65.79 in their average. The average of the 65 stocks used in the three averages closed at 172.88 up 2.18 points.

Blue Chip Trade Mainly.

Blue Chip Trade Mainly.

The week's rise centered on the blue chips but the lowest and the highest priced shares had their innings. Coca-Cola International, highest priced issue listed on the big board, sold at $1.160, a rise of $185 over the previous sale made last April. New York & Harlem reached $610, up $100; Mahoning Coal Railroad $640, up $20; U. S. Gypsum, $318.50, up $23, and Magma Copper, $$119.75, up $18. A long list of stocks rose up to 6 points or better, including Sears Roebuck, Inland Steel, Reynelds Metals, International Paper, International Silver, American Metal, Republic Aviation, and American Potash B. The lowly Benguet Consolidated Mining led in turnover thanks to a volume for the Thursday session of more than 227,000 shares. Many other low-priced issues ran up huge sales totals and helped suc I the over-all volume for the week. American Telephome rights were very active with a turnover of more than a million.

General Motors a Standout. PUTS PRODUCTION INDEX 140, PEAK WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—
The Federal Reserve Board reported August production by factories and mines reached a record high when its index climbed one point to 140, up 14 per cent from August of last year. The index uses average production in the years 1947-49, inclusive, as a base of 100. The previous record was the index level of 139 maintained during June and July. NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Sept. 17 (U.S.D.A. weekly review of the livestock market)—Marketings attained largest volume since July 1954, with 26,000 for the week, included being 400 loads of beef steers and helfers, plus a liberal supply in stocker and feeder flesh, and around 6500 cows. The steer and helfer trade was firm on weights up to 1150 lbs., in pe-

General Motors a Standout.
General Motors was the outstanding performer in the high-grade stocks. It rose more than nine points on the week as the company reported record sales of new and used cars for the year-to-date.

year-to-date.

The metal shares had many strong spots, notably the aluminum division.

minum division.

Business news continued highly favorable. Automobile production jumped sharply and the percentage of new 1956 models produced moved up in a wide percentage rise.

Steel operations held high.
All other lines were around their best. Meantime, the Federal Reserve reported industrial production at a new record high for August.

production at a new record high for August.

The usual rumors of stock splits, dividend increases, and the like circulated to help many issues. In some cases higher earings and improved dividends were a factor in the rise.

Much of the buying continued for investment account and that section was for cash. There was little or no increase in specula-tion on margin.

SHE DANCED at his Wedding

CHAPTER SEVEN.

N spite of his sudden proposal to a girl he had known only 24 hours Peter Grant seemed the best balanced individual the best balanced individual Donna had known. By unspoken agreement they did not mention the other newly married couple. There was so much background to be filled in; so many years to be accounted for by each of them that they did not lack topics of conversation.

Even if they had, Donna admitted to herself, it would not have mattered. They could have been silent with no feeling of awkwardness, which was the of awkwardness, which was the real test of any friendship. And, although she had rejected his impulsive offer of marriage as no doubt he had expected, still she knew without a doubt they would be friends.

They were dining at one of the hotels and Donna saw sev-eral people who recognized her. She returned their salutations She returned their salutations demurely, conscious of their curiosity. Everyone in town, it seemed, knew her as Arthur's girl. No wonder they were surprised to see her the night after Arthur's wedding with another attractive man. She could imagine their amused comment, "Nice looking man." "Good for Donna. Didn't take her long to replace him."

One of the things which hurt

One of the things which hurt most was the fact that all their mutual acquaintances blamed Arthur; believed that Donna had had a raw deal.

away."

Not until that moment had Donna been certain she would remain in Arthur's office but now she found herself looking forward to it. Almost gaily she told Peter goodnight and ran inside. Her mood continued while she undressed, removed her makeup and washed her face. Bus when she closed her eyes and tried to sleep Arthur's face haunted her, blotting out the more recent image of Peter Grant. Arthur had reigned in her heart too many years to be supplanted so soon, even by a man who was obviously his superior. "There couldn't be any other reason."

He lighted a cigarette. She noticed his hand was shaking. "Couldn't there? Would it make any difference if I told you have fallen in love with you?

"I wouldn't believe it."
"I was afraid you wouldn't.
That's why I put it on another superior.

Six o'clock the next morning found her wan and wide-eyed. She couldn't appear at the office like this. Neither could she remain in the apartment. Panic was in her as she lifted the telephone from the table by the bed. Peter had offered her a solution which would help both of them. Marriage to a person you admired and trusted was the only weapon against loneliness. Donna told herself she must be crazy to call a man at 6 o'clock.

Peter sounded sleepy. Maybe "Let's not be ridiculous," Donna urged, feeling they were becoming too involved. "I like replace him."

One of the things which hurt most was the fact that all their most was the fact that all their most was the fact that all their mutual acquaintances blamed Arthur; believed that Donna had had a raw deal.

Suddenly she realized that Peter had paused. "Forgive me," she apologized. "I was thinking about you so intently I forgot to listen."

"I'll forgive you anything as long as your are truthful—which you are not." Peter said emphatically. "You weren't thinking about me and you know it."

I'was thinking of both of you," she insisted, coloring. Comparisons are odious," he reminded her.

"Not in this case. Arthur would never have behaved as you have under similar circum—would never have behaved as you have under similar circum—state of the proken engagement had been like a deep cut in her sub-conscious. She had concealed her pain, had confided in no one and had refused to become shyterical. But it had taken its toll on her fierves. Tonight for Peter sounded sleepy. Maybe it would be wiser just to hang up so he would think it was a wrong number. But Donna's need was greater than her pride.
"It's Donna," she said.
"It's Donna," she said.
"It's anything wrong, dear?"
"Yes., I haven't been able to sleep all night, It's terribly inconsiderate of me to call you so early but I have to talk to you."
"Shall I come to your apart-"Shall I come to your apart-ment?" he inquired, as casually as if it were not 6 o'clock in the "Can you do that, Peter?"
"I can and will," Peter Grant replied.

Hot and Dry Over Weekend

Astronomical fall is only a few days away, but hot, dry, 90-degree weather will continue in the St. Louis area at least over the weekend, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said. A low pressure area expected to corrow over Nebraska may bring cooler temperatures Monday with a chance of rain, he said.

St. Louis's high yesterday, 91 at 4:30 p.m., made the fifty-first day this year with maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or more as compared with

"Had a bomb from an American plane hit this source, the casualties would have been 10 times the number killed by one atomic bomb. Two million Japanese would have been affected, for in the valley of Hiroshima the frequency of low ceilings would have left the gas veil there for many days."

THE ARTICLE by Mr. Young is a timely reminder that the world contains dangerous things besides atomic bombs. Poison gas is one of these. Germs could be used to spread disease, and deadly poisons could be placed in reserving containing water in reservoirs containing water for cities.

A FTER reading my article about Hiroshima last month, a South Carolina publisher, Mr. James R. Young, sent me a clipping of an article he had written concerning that Japanese city.

IN THE PUBLIC MIND, and probably in fact, atomic bombs including H-bombs represent the most horrible form of warfare. If they were employed in a future world war, it seems certain that other terrible weapons would be used as well. Some of the world's leading statesmen have declared, in recent months, that peace can be assured if the right action is taken. If they stop the use of atomic bombs, let us hope that they also will halt poison gas, germ warfare and other fearful methods of destroying the human race. IN THE PUBLIC MIND, and
